1. What Memora is

Memora is a customer follow-up tool designed for people and small businesses that work through conversations on WhatsApp, Instagram and other channels. Its purpose is to help you record every contact, know its current status and detect when follow-up is needed.

Information is organized around records. Each record can contain a name, contact channel, contact detail, subject, identifier, status and comments.

- Status indicators such as New inquiry, Information sent, Waiting for customer, Waiting for internal response, Closed, Lost and Archived.
- A general summary of your activity.
- Follow-up Required for records that exceed the configured inactivity time.
- Quick access to create a new record.

Purpose

Memora does not replace the conversation with the customer: it helps you organize it and know which contact needs attention.

2. First start and profile

The first time you use Memora, the app asks for a few details to personalize the experience. Full name is required. You can also save an ID or tax ID, company name and phone or WhatsApp number.

From Profile and Settings you can edit your information, adjust follow-up, choose how many channels are shown, manage Google Drive, change the theme and select the language.

- Automatic language: Memora uses the device language when it is Spanish, English or Portuguese. If the device uses another language, Memora falls back to Spanish.
- You can also manually select Spanish, English or Portuguese; that choice is saved.
- Changing the interface language never modifies data written by the user.
- Dark mode can be enabled or disabled from Profile.

Recommended setting

Use Automatic if you want Memora to follow the device language.
Choose a language manually if you prefer the interface to remain fixed.

3. Create and edit records

To create a record, press + New record. Fill in the information you need and save. Memora validates the main fields to reduce entry errors.

Field	Use
Name	Identifies the person or contact.
Channel	WhatsApp, Instagram, Email, LinkedIn, Facebook or Telegram.
Contact	Information needed to open the channel; validation depends on the selected channel.
Subject	Summarizes the reason for the inquiry, sale, service or follow-up.
Identifier	Optional tax ID, customer number or other reference.
Status	Represents the current point of the interaction.
Comments	Notes to record updates, agreements or context.

Version 1.5.0 adds stricter validation for phone numbers, email and social usernames. It also warns about possible duplicates by contact detail or identifier before creating another record.

To edit an existing record, open its customer card and update only the necessary information. Comments remain associated with the record.

4. Statuses and follow-up

Memora uses statuses to show the current stage of each record.

- New inquiry: newly entered contact.
- Information sent: information, proposal or response has already been sent.
- Waiting for customer: the next action depends on the customer.
- Waiting for internal response: an action remains pending on your side or your team.
- Closed: completed interaction.
- Lost: opportunity or interaction that did not continue.
- Archived: record removed from the active view while keeping its information.

In Profile you can define a time limit in hours or days. When a record exceeds that period without activity and is not Closed, Lost or Archived, it appears under Follow-up Required.

Reviewed

If you checked a case and there is nothing new to change, use Reviewed. Memora records a new review and recalculates when the record should appear in follow-up.

5. Channels, comments and contact

Each record can have a primary channel and additional channels. Available channels are WhatsApp, Instagram, Email, LinkedIn, Facebook and Telegram.

When the channel is WhatsApp, Memora uses the selected international prefix and validates the phone format. Channel buttons let you quickly open the corresponding service from the customer card.

- You can add comments while creating or editing a record.
- Comments can be edited or deleted.
- The customer card shows the most recent comment when available.
- The record view keeps the available comment history.

Important

Memora translates the interface, visible statuses and reports, but it does not translate names, subjects, comments or other content written by you.

6. Search, filter and archive

The Records screen contains your customer base. Use general search and filters to find information by name, channel, contact, subject, identifier, status or comment content.

View Archived switches between active and archived records. An archived record keeps its information and can be restored to the active view.

Profile includes an auto-archive option for records in Closed or Lost status after 30 days. This rule can be enabled or disabled.

Exports use the active or filtered view. Report titles, statuses and interface text are generated in the language currently active in Memora.

7. Backup, exports and safety

From Profile you can connect Google Drive, save a backup and restore information from the cloud. Auto-save after changes is also available when the connection is active.

- Excel (.xlsx): a real workbook for reviewing, sorting or continuing work with the information.
- PDF: a report of the active or filtered view.
- JSON: downloads the complete database in a structured format.
- Manual: Memora opens the manual that matches the active language.

Memora works as a PWA. If you see an older version, use Clear PWA Cache and open the app again.

Safety Zone

Reset Memora deletes local data and settings from the device. It requires a written confirmation phrase and then a second confirmation. Use it only when you truly want to start over.

8. Help and frequently asked questions

1. Complete your profile.
2. Create a record.
3. Select the channel and enter the contact detail.
4. Set the subject and status.
5. Add comments when there are updates.
6. Check Home for pending follow-ups.
7. Contact the customer from the channel buttons.
8. Use Profile for language, backups, exports and settings.

Do my records disappear when archived?

No. They move to the Archived view and keep their information.

Can I change the follow-up time?

Yes. In Profile you can select hours or days.

What does Automatic language do?

It uses the device's main language when it is Spanish, English or Portuguese. Otherwise, Memora uses Spanish.

Can I export my data?

Yes. You can export the active view to Excel or PDF and download the complete database as JSON.

Can I replay the welcome tour?

Yes. From Help you can start the welcome tour again.

Help inside Memora

The Help section contains the quick guide, the manual for your active language and the option to replay the welcome tour.
